TOMAHAWK TECHNOLOGIES' ENHANCES PARKADMIN SOLUTION FOR CARLETON UNIVERSITY

CARLETON PLACE, CANADA – Tomahawk Technologies, a leading provider of intuitive web based parking and office management solutions announced today that the world's first solution for web based parking issuance and management solution has been enhanced to include web based financial payment capabilities.

“We recognized that our customers, who are all highly web literate, were looking for a self service method of requesting, managing and paying for parking permits,” said Brian Billings, Community Safety Coordinator, Department of University Safety, Carleton University. “To this end we worked with our parking solution partner, Tomahawk, to develop a very intuitive payment interface that is increasing the level of customer service we are providing as well as making the management of the process extremely manageable.”

“We are very proud to be working with such innovators and thought leaders as Brian Billings and Carleton University,” said Robin Mulloy, President of Tomahawk Technologies. “Providing Carleton with an enhanced of ParkAdmin solution which will allow the university's students and staff to purchase parking permits on the line is a fantastic feature which will set the standard for other educational institutions in terms of customer service.”
